

I Refuse to Believe

by Hali Hammer

I refuse to believe that the light which we share is dimming

I refuse to believe that the good which we do will fail

I refuse to believe that the righteous will be defeated

Or our vitality be depleted - I refuse to believe

I refuse to believe that our strides are inconsequential

I refuse to believe that our energies will be drained

I refuse to believe even in our bleakest moment

That our force is less than potent - I refuse to believe

For I believe we are connected to a universal power

That cannot be held back for very long

And even when the forces of darkness are all around us

We will prevail if we don't curtail our song

I refuse to believe that the light which we share is dimming

I refuse to believe that the good which we do will fail

I refuse to believe that the righteous will be defeated

Or our vitality be depleted - I refuse to believe

'Cause I believe that we are rising with others who are surmising

That caring and compassion are the key

And we are large in numbers

And we are strong in spirit

And we will not betray our humanity

I refuse to believe that our strides are inconsequential

I refuse to believe that our energies will be drained

I refuse to believe even in our bleakest moment

That our force is less than potent - I refuse to believe...
